

THEOLOGICAL ETHICS STUDY OF “BAGATE” BEHAVIOR IN CHURCH ASSEMBLY AT GMIST BETANI LEBO

ANDI ALFIAN MADALISE

190201092

ABSTRACT

The purpose of this research is to find out and describe the understanding of congregations and congregational councils about bagging as well as the impact of bagating behavior, besides that this research is also to examine ethically theologically bagating behavior in congregational assemblies at GMIST Betani Lebo.

This research is a qualitative research with a descriptive approach that was carried out at GMIST Betani Lebo. Data was collected through observation, documentation and interviews.

The results of this study are: 1) Bagate behavior is an activity carried out simultaneously with certain groups of people by building togetherness with one another. 2) The impact that can be caused when someone drinks alcoholic beverages will generally have a negative impact both for oneself but also for others, such as chaos, fights and even accidents. But there are also positive impacts that can strengthen relationships between consumers. 3) Ethically, in the deontological view of drinking alcoholic beverages, there are laws and regulations, teleologically, drinking alcoholic beverages can be said to be good when drinking according to the required dose for the purpose of health, but contextually this bagate behavior is said to be incorrect because of the position of a person who consumes it. is a special maid.

Keywords: Behavior, Ethics, Congregational Assembly, Bagate