ABSTRACT

This study aims to examine the song Oh Mawu Ruata as a medium of reconciliation in the context of ministry at KGPM Sidang Maranatha Sanumpito. Amidst the challenges of broken relationships due to social conflict, differences of opinion, and emotional wounds, the church is required to provide a space for healing.

A qualitative research method with a descriptive approach was employed in this study. Data was collected through observation, documentation, and interviews. Additionally, the research data was analysed through reduction, presentation, and drawing conclusions.

The results of this study indicate that the song Oh Mawu Ruata is not only part of the liturgy but also serves as a medium or tool for self-reflection, conveying messages of confession, requests for forgiveness, and hope for healing.
